Introduction

The Nelson Labs Mark is a testing verification program that mobilizes two-factor authentication for product testing to provide our clients with the credibility their products deserve. By offering ongoing access to verifiable performance data, the Nelson Labs Mark helps manufacturers build trust through transparency and empowers consumers to differentiate unsubstantiated products from those that are tested and verified.

Tested and Verified Products

Nelson Labs offers two levels of product verification to help clients affirm their commitment to the highest global standards. As a leading provider of independent, third-party testing across the medical device, pharmaceutical, and tissue industries, we go beyond exceptional quality and rigorous testing standards to provide solutions that improve patient outcomes and minimize risk. With our Nelson Labs Tested™ and Nelson Labs Verified™ marks, manufacturers can provide their customers with confidence in their purchases, big and small.

Tested

Nelson Laboratories will validate testing regarding the performance of a product.

- Access to customized Nelson Lab marks for use in advertising and promotions
- Two-factor verifiable web listing
- Ongoing access to test reports

Verified

Nelson Laboratories will verify that a product's testing complies with established industry/regulatory standards.

- Expert evaluation of test results by industry leaders
- Summary report to interpret and compare performance data against recognized safety and efficacy standards
- Enhanced peace of mind for your customers with clear explanations of test results
- Verified certificate
